Red Rash

Down through the years since Russian revolutionists organized the Communist International, or Comintern, to promote worldwide revolution, as much mischief has been done by suspicion of its activities as by the activities themselves. The suspicion is flaring up again. It was included in the report to the Senate this week by its foreign relations committee, Senator Connally of Texas, who has just returned from London as a delegate to the first meeting of the United Nations Assembly. Russia, he said, has a right to any kind of government it wants, but its rights "do not extend beyond her

Winston Churchill also has voiced it in references to misgivings about Russia's "proselytizing". It is one of the principal handicaps to cooperative security. Obviously, as long as a considrable number of non-Russians suspect that their political security, not to mention their economic security, is being attacked have stood along the east side of Lundy st., are being known that certain infections, as as part of an international plan to establish a class removed today by the city employes. dictatorship, there can be no genuine cooperation. A

The Russian Communists themselves recognized this handicap to cooperation in May, 1943, when the Comintern, created in 1919, was formally disbanded by its own executive committee. This wartime decision, intended to reassure Russia's allies, did not Women. prove to be reassuring, however. There is still a suspicion that Communists in other countries represent more than their local followers.

Now, while an attempt is going forward to put Russo-American relations on a realistic basis for the postward years, the suspicion about Communists in and either disposed of or confirmed.

It so happens that in negotiations leading up to our government's recognition of the Soviet Union in November, 1933, heavy stress was laid on Russia's pledge to abstain from "proselytizing" in this country.

Relations were established by an exchange of letters between President Roosevelt and Maxim Litvinov, then Soviet commisar of foreign affairs. The text of these letters made it plain that non-inter- Springs. ference was the prerequisite of recognition. It has been so long since the matter was given the attention it received then that the text of M. Litvinov's letter dealing specifically with the problem is interesting to reread:

"My dear Mr. President: I have the honor to inform you that coincident with the establishment of diplomatic relations between our two governments if will be the fixed policy of the government of the Friday at Youngstown. Union of Soviet Socialist Republic-

These were strong guarantees. Yet it was not until 1943 that the Comintern was disbanded. For 10 years before that, suspicion of Russian connection with Communists in the United States had been kept alive by evidence that this country's occasional attacks of red rash were not wholly of local origin.

Elsewhere in his letter, M. Litvinov pledged his

"Not to permit the formation or residence on its territory of any organization or group-and to prevent the activity on its territory of any organization or group-which has as an aim the overthrow or the preparation for the overthrow of, or the bringing about by force of a change in the political or social order of the whole or any part of the United States, its territories or possessions.

The State Department should make an official report on the first 13 years of relations with the Soviet Union. If its pledge made in 1933 has been kept, if American Communists are on their own having no connection whatever with the Russian government or the Communist party in Russia, and if Russia desires friendly relations with the United States, 'it should do what is long overdue. It should issue a plain statement that it renounces the activities in this country of all persons handicapping Russo-American relations by seeming to break the Soviet Union's pledge of 1933 not to interfere in any way in the internal affairs of the United States.

Mediation For The Masses

It is a suggestion for a federal mediation board. This offspring of prolific bureaucracy would keep differences of opinion from growing into deadlocks. doctor. But they usually want it at a different time. The idea is to short-circuit the Department of Labor's mediators, because they are working for a department supposed to serve labor exclusively and are another. open to suspicion of prejudice.

What we really need is not just mediation for The smile that spreads sunshine has a nice habit

The senators have a big thing here if they make something of it. Instead of stopping at a board, they should go whole hog and set up a department.

There should be a secretary of mediation. He would be worth his weight in broken promises in cabinet meetings. His department would grow and MEMBER OF THE ASSOCIATED PRESS, The Associated Press is exclusively entitled to the use for republication of all news dispatches credited to it or not otherwise credited in this paper, and also the local news published therein. NEW FABRIC HATS IMPERVIOUS TO SUN AND RAIN

Leading New York milliners are out to beat the weather with their newest creations made of Plexon fabrics which can be worn without fear of damage in rain or shine. The plastic coated yarn may be woven, braided, twisted or hand crocheted. This material is impervious to perspiration, oil and grease, is waterproof and colorfast to sun, and fade-proof against the elements, and adds new qualities to smart and high fashion headwear. The three models shown here are all made of this practical fabric. Florence Reichman designed the classic white breton sailor, top left, on which even the feathers are made of plastic coated yarn and are waterproof. They are brilliantly colored. Below is a John Frederics' model in hand-crocheted aqua yarn in a flattering, wide-brimmed summer hat with open crown. The delicate, lace-like appearance conceals the sturdiness of the material, for even if milady encounters a rainstorm, the hat will be as chic and crisp as when she set out. Rose Saphire's mammoth size beret, right, is of multi-colored striped material, intricately draped and swirled; the (International) draping remaining intact in spite of the weather.

Secret of the Akron school's success so far in tournament play has been to wear the opposition down with a terrific running game with a host of substitutes to add to the pace.

Salem seems hardly an easy pre North, however, has won four in to this attack as the Quakers are North, however, has a row, three of them in tourney in excellent shape this year and do not tire easily. The taller Salem lads, however, have displayed a tendency to slowness as compared of the regional contenders, showing M.

and Hollinger both trailing with 171 or not Salem can—as it has so far in tourney play—force North to play its type of game.

This will or will not come about according to thhe effectiveness of Salem's control of the backboards. So far the Quakers have had their own way about thhe boards. North may threaten that supremacy.

Tourney Talk

By DON E. BEATTIE, News Sports Editor

CONFIDENCE AND the resulting "coolness" in play is the secret of Salem's successful tournament play so far, according to Football Coach Ben Barrett of Salem High school, who probably was more pleased than nost everyone when the Quakers nipped the tourney hopes of Youngs own's South last Saturday. Barrett, an ardent follower of the Quakers through the basketball eason, says the recently found confidence was obvious in the Niles game season, says the recently found confidence was obvious in the Niles game and again Saturday in the South encounter.

"It's that sureness of what they are doing that gives Salem a definite edge in these tournament games," Barrett says. He's one of many Salemites predicting a trip to Toledo for the Quakers this year.

Barrett, like Basketball Coach Bob Miller, says Salem will give an edge to no team if they get by the North fray tomorrow. Warren or Lakewend next, the grid mentor will confidently go out on the limit Lakewood next, the grid mentor will confidently go out on the limb and pick Salem as the winner. BARRETT'S FAITH in the Quakers was completely justified Saturday when Salem trounced Youngstown co-championship South team. There wasn't a happier man in the Salem crowd that night.

The reason-well, Ben is a Youngstowner and a graduate of South. It's always nice to show up the boys back home!

TOURNAMENT "FEVER" strikes ven harder among the smaller B schools than it does in the larger A group. If you think that's an over-statement, just make the trip to South fieldhouse tonight and watch the antics of these B team supporters.

Waynesburg, still undefeated meets North Canton at 8 tonight and Adena, an unknown takes on powerful Akron Ellet in Tournament crowds are probably

Over in one section of the stands you'll find about 1,000 fans rooting his second-sacker, Johnny Hopp for this team—over in another are his centerfielder and "Bama" almost an equal number cheering their hearts out for another team During the same game you'll find two other groups, not directly concerned over the outcome, but root-

Color flows are wild cheers.

This all goes to heighten the best of the color by many observers. s all part of that strange phemena-tournament basketball.

FROM ALL INDICATIONS nost of Salem will be in Youngsown tomorrow night. The High chool will turn out en masse, and the adult following promses to be the largest Salem has een in many a year.

The interest in Salem's team is low dipping down to the guys ho previously just knew the eam was playing and "hoped they would win." Now those fellows, along with all the others, are going to see for themselves.

The High school cheer leaders are asking rooters to get there early tomorrow and fill the northwest corner of the field house. The large red and black Salem banner will be hoisted there so all can find their way.

It's vitally important, the vellrousers say, for the student body to assemble itself in a body for those cheers!

INTERESTING TO NOTE is the fact that of the four teams at Youngstown, Salem ranks best along with Warren - in defensive record since the tourney began. Warren, however, has the top illing at Youngstown on offense Salem's opponents have averaged 3 points a game, as compared to Warren's average of 38 points. The Quakers have not been a highcoring team this year, only one -in the Alliance game-going over 50 points.

Warren has a margin of 16 points on an average, over their four Probably nowhere else can you tourney foes, testifying that the d such a complex crowd. Warren's defense is not just defense, in the usual sense of the word. The Presidents have held opponents to low scores because the spend most of the time scoring themselves on the fast break. Salem's tactics have been to con trol the ball, score enough points

WANTED! USED CARS

The price of your used car dropped 4% the first of the year! With new car production under way, it is obvious further reductions will have to be made in the near future as many cars now 4 and 5 years old are still selling for as much as the price of new ones. We are still paying top ceiling price for all niakes and models. Take advantage of today's high prices and sell us your car now.

PLAN FOOD SAVING TO FEED EUROPE'S HUNGRY

RECENTLY NAMED HEAD of a commission established to obtain more food for starving Europe, former President Herbert Hoover is shown (left) as he conferred in Washington with Secretary of Agriculture Clinton Anderson (center) and Chester Davis, chairman of the Famine Emergency Commission. The group, with the aid and blessing of President Truman, have inaugurated a campaign to obtain food for the Europeans by reducing the consumption of bread and other food in the United States.
